Online Modules

Develop your own novel study unit (Years 3-6)

How to select a text that is ambitious in scope.

The essential features of a novel studies unit.

How to select vocabulary for explicit instruction.

Ways to scaffold student learning about the key themes, ideas and writing features of a novel.

This short program is designed to support teams who are looking to write novel study units in the style of the Ochre Years 3-6 units.

The program aims to identify the steps required in creating a high-quality study of complex texts, with schools having the opportunity to select a high-quality text to develop. During the program, participants will have the opportunity to gain feedback from Teach Well experts on their units.

Develop your own novel study unit (Years 3-6)

Who is it for?

This program is designed for primary Literacy teams who are keen to develop their skills in unit design aligned to the science of learning. Participants can be from all States and Territories and all sectors. Although this course will draw on Ochre resources to demonstrate key concepts, it is relevant for all schools, irrespective of whether they use Ochre materials or not.

How is it structured?

There are three 2-3 hour virtual workshops (via Zoom) (scheduled during late mornings AEST / early mornings AWST), in which school teams learn together and apply that learning in session.

Alongside these webinars is an opportunity to talk with our curriculum experts to gain feedback and problem-solve the next steps.

It will require a commitment from teams of between 10 - 20 hours of work. All workshops will also be recorded for review.

When does the program run?

Cohort 1 will kick-off in Term 1 2026 to support planning for the 2026 school year.

Costs

$2,031 for a school (team of 3 staff)

$508 for additional school staff

$1,016 for individuals

Prices include GST

Very small schools can request a discounted price for access. Email info@teach-well.com.au
